

A Source told me who was there when it was recorded, "The Dark" demo's were much heavier. The record company polished the recordings to make it sound it more polished for commercial success.

Dave was worried "Watch the Children pray" sounded to wimpy.

Watch The Children Pray was the bands 1st video.

Early burial at sea was "Pale Horse".

"Just another reason I got tired of fighting the self proclaimed god of Metal Church and split. Mr. V. wanted to break the Metal Church recipe of songwriting team: Wells, Wayne and Vanderhoof to whatever Mr. vanderhoof wanted and I wish him the best of luck in whatever endeavor he chooses, sorry Metal Church fans but due to the constant slagging from Mr. Vanderhoof in recent interviews he will in fact be bringing in a dark horse for the next album (new singer).

yes I've been told The "Pale Horse" Lyrics were of better writing than "Burial at sea" by founding members..but you know it's spilled milk and I'll just carry on by doing my best to get revenge by simply being successful, must be working he's still bad mouthing me and very bitter..poor Kurt".
- David Wayne

Start the fire is about the PMRC

Ton of Bricks was usually the set opener.

There are many full video shows out there with Metallica, none of the opener Metal Church

They toured with Anthrax and Metallica in 87. They were great friends with Metallica, but Anthrax was unfriendly and kept away from Metal Church completely.